

Presidential Election Simulation

The brief presidential election for 2019 will represent most of the aspects of a real presidential election season after labor day. It is the home stretch and your candidate has won the nomination of one of the major parties and now the home stretch is here.

P Students will represent the roles of a swing states and be armed with the polls as of the date and the state's beliefs on the major issues. States

State	Person	State	Person
Arizona		Pennsylvania
Nevada		New Hampshire
New Mexico		Maine
Iowa		Virginia
Wisconsin		North Carolina
Minnesota		Georgia
Ohio		Florida
Michigan		Nebraska District

AP Students will play the following roles.

Job and Responsibility	Name
Presidential Candidate: Travels to regions and give speeches, participates in debates, deals with strategy, participates in commercials	1. 2.
VP Candidate: Travels to regions and give speeches, participates in debates, deals with strategy, participates in commercials	1. 2.
Candidate Strategist: Plans the campaign, tells candidate what to do, communicates with varying staff members, sets the travel schedule and communicates with the teacher	1. 2.
Communications Director: Responsible for development of media campaign, posters, radio, television ads, and polling etc.	1. 2.
Spin Doctor: Speaks to Media, travels with the candidates to the region and covers for mistakes, speaks after the debates and says why their candidate won the debate	1. 2.
Financial Manager: Tracks funds of the campaign, fundraises by creating events for candidates	1. 2.
MEDIA: (Fox and MSNBC) publicize the key issues and events concerning this election by creating a filmed news report and the print edition. Interview candidates	1. 2. 3. 4.
FEC: Federal Election Commission helps Mr. Davey organize the campaign, checks the financials of each party and fines the parties if they fail to do things correctly	1

Presidential Election Simulation